2021 was another year of extraordinary challenges. The COVID-19 pandemic continued to wreak havoc across the globe, and domestic workers remained on the frontlines, caring for the things that are most precious to us despite immense risks to their health.

At the beginning of 2021, the IDWF released the final reports on the COVID-19 impact study that was conducted in 2020. The studies showed how domestic workers in each region were affected by the first year of the pandemic in often devastating ways.

Throughout 2021, domestic workers navigated surges in COVID-19 rates as new variants spread. They continued to see their hours cut or jobs lost and with little or no notice. While the vaccines offered a shimmer of hope for ending the pandemic, they have been distributed inequitably, and many domestic workers lack access to vaccinations.

The pandemic has exposed and deepened the systemic inequalities that women domestic workers experience around the globe. In the global context of rising hate crimes, anti-Black racism, gender-based violence, and all other forms of discrimination, the IDWF’s thematic campaigns and advocacy work are the most direct ways to address these injustices and tackle the systemic barriers that have kept domestic workers down and excluded from government protections for so long. Undocumented migrant domestic workers and live-in domestic workers have been among those who needed our solidarity most. They lost their jobs and had no other income to survive. In the case of the live-in domestic workers, some also lost a place to live.

In the midst of these challenges, we took time to celebrate. 2021 was the 10th Anniversary of the International Labour Organisation (ILO) Convention C189, recognising that domestic workers are entitled to labour protections. We also began to look ahead to the recovery phase when we can put the pandemic behind us. IDWF is calling on leaders to take these immediate steps:

- Treat COVID-19 as an occupational hazard, with paid sick leave for domestic workers.
- Include domestic workers in occupational health and safety laws, regulations, and protocols.
- Prioritize domestic workers in vaccination plans: vaccines should be available, accessible, and free.
- Ratify and implement ILO Convention C189, recognising that domestic workers are entitled to labour protections.
- Ratify and implement ILO Convention C190, the first international labour standard that sets a clear framework to end violence and harassment at work.
2021 was defined by endurance, determination, and resiliency for IDWF, our affiliates, and the domestic workers who comprise our organisation.

The impact of two years of the coronavirus pandemic cannot be understated. Domestic workers have dealt with unemployment and reduced hours and wages. Those who could still work had to do so at risk to their health. During this precarious time, some affiliates struggled to engage domestic workers and retain leaders. In 2021, we continued our COVID-19 Solidarity Fund, an emergency fund created to respond to the crisis at both the human and organizational levels. Many IDWF affiliates used Solidarity Funds to sustain their organizations during this difficult period. Despite the pandemic’s challenges, we still have seen domestic workers join affiliates and form new organisations—a testament to the need for us to support one another and work together to protect and advance domestic workers’ rights and dignity everywhere.

Our core work remained steadfast during this long period of disruption. We offered online training programs on COVID-19 safety measures, gender equality, and the 10th Anniversary of C189, and offered simultaneous language interpretation. IDWF completed a new five-year strategic plan for 2021-2025 and began to develop and implement innovative sustainability strategies for robust organizational growth. We also began to transition IDWF headquarters from Hong Kong to Geneva.

In some countries, we saw legislative improvements and new concrete measures that afford domestic workers more rights and benefits. Some key achievements in Latin America occurred with the release of a regional guide for Occupational Health and Safety for Domestic Workers for Covid-19 prevention alongside the ILO. Malaysia and Taiwan passed legislation that will add protections for migrant domestic workers. New affiliates are forming in Malaysia, including one for Indonesian migrant domestic workers. The Africa region continued to grow when three new affiliates in Rwanda, Lesotho and Democratic Republic of the Congo joined IDWF. European affiliates organized for migrant workers’ rights. The affiliate in Jordan is helping domestic workers document and seek legal relief for labor disputes, and the Kuwait affiliate is organizing Ethiopian migrant domestic workers. At the ILO Conference in Geneva, a report on social protection and inequality specifically mentioned domestic workers, which will be useful in advocating for policies that extend protections to the workforce. Impact studies in almost all the regions found consensus on the need to advocate for social protections for domestic workers, affirming a shared priority.

Our movement is growing—and with that growth there is increased strength, leadership, and new ideas from our talented and motivated members. We are firm in our commitment to building a strong, democratic, and united domestic/household workers global organization to protect and advance domestic workers’ rights.
CONTEXT AND THE NEED

According to the International Labour Organization (ILO):

◆ There are over 75.6 million domestic workers globally

◆ 76% of domestic workers are women

◆ An estimated 11.5 million domestic workers are migrant workers

◆ Domestic work accounts for 8.8% of women’s wage employment worldwide
Domestic workers provide essential services in the modern economy, enabling other men and women to participate in the external labour force while maintaining their home lives. Our job duties often include care for children and increasingly, the elderly—advances in medicine allow people to live longer, yet many no longer live in close proximity to their extended families. Domestic workers are a critical part of the “care economy”, which is recognized as a growing area of need and employment. A 2017 McKinsey study estimated that demand for caregiving occupations and domestic workers would increase by 50-90 million jobs globally.

Despite the importance of our labour, the working conditions of domestic workers are very poor, and wages are low. In many countries, domestic workers even lack legal recognition as workers and are therefore not entitled to labour protections afforded to virtually all other workers. An estimated 40.7 million domestic workers are not covered by labour and social security laws. For example, domestic workers are not protected by minimum wage laws in many countries. In those countries where decent laws are on the books, these laws are rarely enforced. A staggering eight out of every ten domestic workers are informally employed, which greatly contributes to the lack of effective labour and social protections. The private, isolated nature of domestic work often makes violations invisible.

The invisible nature of domestic work has made workers highly vulnerable to physical, sexual, emotional, and financial abuse. In the worst cases, domestic workers suffer extreme abuse, harassment, and violence: beatings, rape, starvation, imprisonment, and death. Of the 25 million people in slavery worldwide, approximately 4 million are domestic workers.

The risks can be especially great for migrants, who often face language and cultural barriers, manipulation by employment agencies, lack of access to justice, and more. Withholding wages—along with passports and visas—is not uncommon, leaving migrant domestic workers extremely vulnerable. Women who migrate for care work constitute the largest demographic segment of women who migrate for employment.

ABOUT IDWF

The International Domestic Worker Federation (IDWF) is a global membership-based organization of domestic and household workers led by women—which means that our understanding of the context, needs, and challenges is both personal and international. We were founded in October 2013 by forty-eight domestic workers’ member-based organizations who saw the need for a global federation to support, train, and help build a worldwide movement.

IDWF helps domestic and household workers build strong, democratic, and sustainable workers’ organizations, and weaves new and existing organizations into our influential global federation.
We do this by:

◆ Supporting domestic workers to form new organizations in Malaysia, Kuwait, and other countries through membership recruitment, organizing, and strengthening women’s leadership.

◆ Capacity-building and exchange of best practices among affiliates, such as a media training for affiliates led by Berlin Rosen that was sponsored by OSF Essential Workers developing a curriculum on GBV, and offering sessions on gender, intersectionality, oppression, and the patriarchy.

◆ Advocacy and awareness campaigns, on ratification of ILO Conventions 189 and 190 and other legal improvements, in countries such as Argentina, Kenya, and Tanzania.

◆ Leveraging the support of strategic partners, such as trade unions and labour rights organizations, as seen in the collaboration with 13 unions in Mexico, Colombia, Dominican Republic, and Brazil to support the implementation of C189.

During the pandemic, it has become more challenging to address the structural problems that domestic workers face. Our affiliates have been busy supporting their members, which meant that there were little resources to think or engage in work beyond the day-to-day challenges. Many leaders and members are experiencing fatigue from the additional stress and instability that the pandemic has caused. Since so many meetings and events have occurred online, many members have trouble attending due to unstable internet and lack of devices. Motivation has also been a challenge. Despite this, domestic workers are continuing to organize and mobilize for their rights.

IDWF’s new 2021-2025 strategic plan took effect in 2021, and the activities outlined in this annual report reflect the objectives developed in that plan.
2021 ACCOMPLISHMENTS AND ACTIVITIES

By the end of 2021 IDWF had:

- 82 affiliates
- From 64 countries
- Representing over 590,000 domestic workers worldwide

Welcome to our new affiliates!

Rwanda: Syndicat des Travailleurs Domestiques et Indépendants de l’Economie Informelle (SYTRIECI)

India: Gharelu Kamgar Panchayat Sangam (GKPS)

Lesotho: Kopanang Domestic Workers Association of Lesotho (KDWAL)

Democratic Republic of the Congo: Union de Femme Domestique du Congo (UFEDOC)

HONOURS

Myrtle Witbooi, IDWF President & Secretary General of South African Domestic Service and Allied Workers Union, was the 2021 recipient of the Silver Rose Lifetime Achievement Award from SOLIDAR.

Ms. Witbooi was honoured for her lifelong struggle for decent work and decent lives of household and domestic workers in South Africa and the world.

First held in 2000, the Silver Rose Awards is a yearly event organised by SOLIDAR in the European Parliament in cooperation with the S&D Group. It is an occasion to celebrate Civil Society Organisations and individuals whose extraordinary struggles contribute to social justice and solidarity throughout the world.
As we emerge from an incredibly difficult period, IDWF conducted a thorough assessment of the federation to determine how we will move ahead. We are planning for a post-COVID era of recovery and building from opportunities including new attention to care and the value of domestic work. IDWF’s new 2021-2025 strategic plan and sustainability program will carry us forward into a new period and ensure that we, and our affiliates, will endure and grow stronger in the years to come.

IDWF’s goals and priorities revolve around four themes: Federation Development, Capacity Building, Thematic Campaigns & Research, and Migrant Domestic Workers. We are guided by an overarching vision to build a powerful, democratic and united domestic workers’ global federation for the strong protection and advancement of domestic workers’ rights and dignity everywhere.

Our goals are to:

1. Build organizational strength with 1 million members including 10,000 migrant domestic workers and emerging new leaders of over 7,000.

2. Enable 30 affiliated leaders in at least 25 countries to have resources to conduct thematic campaigns and actions to create public awareness and government buy-in for advancing the working and living conditions of domestic workers and their families. The result will be the achievement of ratifications of C189 and C190 in at least 13 and 16 countries respectively.

3. Intensify organizing and capacity building drive to raise visibility on migrant domestic workers issues and their representation at decision-making processes especially on the care economy agenda.

4. Our new strategic plan is accompanied by a Revenue Generation Strategy that is intended to enhance our financial sustainability. In partnership with Open Society Foundations, IDWF conducted a survey with 64 affiliates across the globe. The result is a never-seen-before snapshot of the revenue-generating strategies deployed by affiliates of all sizes, organizational ages, types of structures, and regions of the world.
Based on the survey results, IDWF developed a number of hypotheses for consultation and to be tested through pilot projects with the goal of strengthening both the IDWF and its affiliates’ income generating capacity:

◆ “Friends of IDWF” Program: The development and launch of a “Friends of IDWF” membership model for external supporters with no voting rights, which could generate additional revenue and enhance the profile of and support towards IDWF and its affiliates.

◆ IDWF Resource Development: It includes a dedicated fundraising officer with a strong communication background, including through social media, could be instrumental in expanding the donor/funder base and strengthening IDWF’s global fundraising campaigns.

◆ Proposal Writing Peer Support Among Affiliates: A systematic and accessible mentoring and peer support program on effective funding and grant proposal writing could have positive results in increasing affiliates’ capacity, confidence, and successful instances of securing grants from external funding sources.

In addition, the IDWF has developed a concrete proposal on increasing affiliates’ contribution to the IDWF through annual affiliation fees increase. The initiative aims to unite the organization for a common cause.

INTERNATIONAL CAMPAIGNS

RATIFICATION OF C189

The IDWF and domestic worker organizations continued to prioritize ratification of the ILO Convention concerning decent work for domestic workers—known as C189.

C189 is a landmark convention that establishes the first global standards for domestic workers. It gives domestic workers the same basic rights as other workers, including weekly days off, limits to hours of work, minimum wages, paid overtime, social security, and clear terms and conditions of employment.

2021 saw four new ratifications:

◆ Malta (May 2021)
◆ Norway (July 2021)
◆ Antigua and Barbuda (July 2021)
◆ Sierra Leone (August 2021)

As of December 31, 2021, 35 countries have ratified C189. Work is now being done to hold governments accountable for implementation.

“Our union is the one to instigate the government to take action. We have been lobbying and writing to push it until it agrees.”

Norma Nelson, Antigua Trades and Labour Union (ATLU)
RATIFICATION OF C190

Gender-based violence is a major priority for IDWF and all its affiliates, and thus IDWF was heavily involved in the multi-year ILO process to create a new ILO Convention on Ending Violence and Harassment in the World of Work—known as C190. Our goal throughout the process was to ensure that the voices of domestic workers were heard loud and clear. Our efforts, and that of so many labour rights, women's rights, and other organizations paid off in June 2019, when The International Labour Conference voted to adopt C190.

Of particular importance to domestic workers is the fact that “private spaces” are included as a workplace. Policies to protect workers have often excluded private homes and thus have failed to protect domestic workers against gender-based violence and harassment. Likewise, policies about domestic violence cover people in kinship relationships but frequently exclude domestic workers.

IDWF and its affiliates are now active in promoting countries to ratify C190—and in implementing its important protections.

Huge progress has already been made since 2020 when we saw the first three ratifications.

IDWF is developing a training manual on C190 ratification campaigns in the hopes that we will see more countries improve protections for domestic workers. We are working with affiliates in Latin America and Asia to develop and pilot the first training manuals.

2021 brought seven new ratifications:

- Argentina (February 2021)
- Somalia (March 2021)
- Ecuador (May 2021)
- Mauritius (July 2021)
- Greece (August 2021)
- Italy (October 2021)
- South Africa (November 2021)
C189 is ours. It was not won for us.
We won it, and we have to guard it and use it.”
Myrtle Witbooi, President, International Domestic Workers Federation

C189 is a watershed victory for domestic workers around the world. After five years of organizing and advocacy, domestic workers won the right to be recognized as workers, with the basic rights of all other workers. On 16 June 2011, the International Labour Organization – the part of the United Nations that deals with employment rights – agreed to adopt Convention No.189 - Decent Work for Domestic Workers.

There is still much work to do to ensure the ratification, implementation, and enforcement of C189 around the world. But in 2021, we took the time to celebrate this landmark achievement.

We released the report “10 years since winning C189: Domestic Workers Become an Unstoppable Movement” with Women in Informal Employment: Globalizing and Organizing (WIEGO). IDWF held interactive regional workshops on the ILO 10 Year Report on C189, including a webinar and strategy workshop held in conjunction with the ILO that was attended by 60 people.

Some of the regional highlights included:

◆ The African Region conducted regional meetings on Zoom to share the experience on the ratification of C189, featuring domestic workers from South African Domestic Service and Allied Workers Union (SADSAWU), Namibian Domestic and Allied Workers Union (NDAWU), and Syndicat National des Employés de Maison de Guinée (SYNEM-GUINEE).

◆ The Asian Region provided coordination and comments at a webinar on “Progress and prospects in Asia and the Pacific ten years after the adoption of the Domestic Workers Convention, 2011 (No. 189)” for ILO Asia Pacific, attended by 159 people.

◆ The European Region took part in planning a high-level European conference commemorating the ratification in June and contributed to the European and Global booklet on 10 years of C189. The Conference was opened by a short film provided by IDWF on the engagement of domestic workers in the negotiations at the ILO in 2010 and 2011.
Wendy Paula Galarza Quinonez, IDWF Executive Committee Member and Union Officer of Federazione Italiana Lavoratori Commercio, Turismo e Servizi, presented on “Social Dialogue as an effective tool towards the domestic workers’ rights improvement.” The IDWF regional coordinator chaired a panel, and IDWF President Myrtle Witbooi closed the conference with key political recommendations for European stakeholders.

- The Middle East and North Africa (MENA) Region held a regional interactive online discussion in December to discuss the 10 years of C189 ILO MENA report. The virtual discussion included affiliates and domestic worker unions from Kuwait, Qatar, Jordan, and Lebanon. In June, the region held several events, including a C189 forum with approximately 60 participants attended mainly from SKDWA and EDWA; an online forum featuring IDWF’s General Secretary Elizabeth Tang; and an in-person and online celebration featuring presentations, an award ceremony, performances by domestic workers, and winners of painting, photography, and short film competitions.

Looking ahead, we are determined to see additional countries ratify C189 and enact meaningful protections for domestic workers. We have to make C189 available in a language that all domestic workers can understand and then use to fight for their rights to be respected. We will push for implementation and accountability for the countries that have ratified C189. IDWF’s new strategic plan outlines our goals for monitoring governments’ progress, developing an implementation guide beginning with the Latin American region through a project funded by ILO, and providing legal support to affiliates. We have identified 13 target countries across all regions with the goal of securing ratifications within the next five years, and we hope to see 10 more ratifications by the next congress.

Guided by the vision of domestic workers, IDWF is committed to ensuring that C189 is ratified and implemented across the globe. Domestic work must not stand outside of social protection, and domestic workers’ organizing must take a seat at every negotiation table: within unionism, social dialogue, and policymaking.
A SEAT AT THE TABLE: INTERNATIONAL REPRESENTATION AND ALLIANCES

Domestic workers do not live single-issue lives. It is crucial for us to be present and heard in international fora on the issues that affect our lives—including women’s rights, gender-based violence, labour rights, and migration, to name just a few.

Below are some of the many international gatherings where IDWF provided representation for domestic workers in 2021:

◆ Global Just Recovery Gathering by 350.org, April 2021. The event served for continuous engagement on a joint agenda bridging workers’ and women’s rights.

◆ Ratify C190 Multi-Country Strategy Meeting | From 5 to 15: Where will the Next Ten C190 Ratifications Come From? Hosted by CARE, ITUC-AP, IWRAW-AP and ActionAid, April 2021. IDWF and participating organizations shared learnings coordinated plans, and developed consensus on strategies for campaigns.

◆ SocialProtection.org’s Child Care Services and Women’s Work, May 2021. IDWF co-hosted a conversation on the shifts in the world of childcare.

◆ International Association for Feminist Economics Conference, June 2021. IDWF participated in a panel on the role of women in the care economy.
109th International Labour Conference, June 2021. IDWF successfully encouraged the conference to reach conclusions on social protection and inequalities that specifically mention domestic workers and C189.

UN General Assembly's Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) Action Zone, September 2021. IDWF spoke about infrastructural inequalities disadvantaging entire populations; informal workers in the African continent, and domestic workers globally.

Essential for Recovery Forum, jointly with the OSF, WIEGO, and other trade unions, September 2021. IDWF represented domestic workers on behalf of the campaign to expand protections and recognition for essential workers.

Global Day of Action on Care, jointly with the ITUC and other Global Unions Federations, October 2021. IDWF added to the chorus of trade unions calling for greater investments in caregiving.

Pope Francis’ World Meeting of Popular Movements, October 2021. IDWF submitted comments on the effect of the pandemic on accessing social security and relief in their contexts.

Oxfam’s Feminist Solutions to Build a Caring Economy: Bringing Diverse Voices for a Just Recovery, December 2021. IDWF called for structural shifts of resources from defunding care to valorizing, compensating, and creating social protection pathways for workers of the informal and care economy.

The Solidarity Centre’s Accountability and Safety for All: the Impact of Domestic Violence on Workers in the Informal Economy. Co-sponsored by IDWF and WIEGO, the webinar focused on the tripartite experience of the Argentinian committee working on freedom from violence at work.

Qatari Ministry Of Administrative Development, Labour and Social Affairs (ADLSA)-ILO-GUFs bi-annual meetings to share recommendations and best practices for labour mobility, access to justice, fair recruitment, labor inspection and Operational Health and Safety, and domestic work.

Participated in the Global Alliance for Care's first membership meeting on September 21, 2021 to deliberate the first six-month work plan. Led by the National Institute of Women in Mexico in alliance with UN Women, IDWF and 51 other members of the multi-stakeholder alliance work together to address the burden of care that hinders economic opportunities for women.

Bi-weekly meetings with WIEGO and its Nets (StreetNet, HomeNet International, and Global Wastepickets Net) to share knowledge and coordinate actions around common objectives.

Collaborated with the International Trade Union Confederation (ITUC) and other Global Union Federations and provided comments on the UNCSW66 Agreed Conclusions by governments, March 2021.
NATIONAL CAMPAIGN VICTORIES

IDWF and its affiliates are involved in national campaigns to improve the daily lives of domestic workers. This year, we saw positive movement across the globe:

◆ Domestic workers are building momentum for the ratification of C189 in Tanzania and Zanzibar. In collaboration with IDWF, Conservation, Hotels, Domestic, Social Services and Consultancy Workers Union (CHODAWU) had meetings with Tanzania and Zanzibar's respective parliamentary leaders and members to plan for discussions in their parliaments.

◆ In Kenya, a campaign by Kenya Union of Domestic, Hotels, Educational Institutions, and Hospital Workers (KUDHEIHA) was successful in reviving the Domestic Wages Council by the Ministry of Labor. KUDHEIHA sits on the board to give voice to domestic workers in matters relating to wages and implementation and enforcement of wage-related laws. KUDHEIHA has also established a returnee network to identify and submit complaints on behalf of migrant domestic workers. This effort is part of the strategy to push for C189 ratification in Kenya.

◆ Jaringan Nasional Advokasi Pekerja Rumah Tangga (JALAPRT) waged a successful campaign that resulted in 1,500 employers registering their domestic workers into BPJS Kesehatan, Indonesia's social security system. This will enable the registered domestic workers to have access to the universal health care system - a critically important benefit, especially during the COVID-19 pandemic.

◆ In the Philippines, United Domestic Workers of the Philippines (UNITED) was recognized by several barangay government units (small local government units) for providing short-term employment schemes for workers affected by the COVID-19 pandemic. Now, UNITED will be authorized to assist domestic workers with finding short-term employment while the pandemic continues to disrupt the sector.

◆ National House Manager’s Cooperative (NHMC) and its allies were proud to report that South Korea’s National Assembly adopted the Act on the Improvement of Employment of Domestic Workers on 21st May 2021. Once it takes effect in July 2022, domestic workers who are hired through intermediaries will be officially recognized workers, receive major insurance benefits, and be guaranteed the minimum wage—a watershed achievement.
Domestic workers, including migrants, are now covered under Malaysia’s Employees’ Social Security Act (Act 4) and Employment Insurance System (Act 800) starting 1 June 2021. Asosasyon ng mga Makabayang Manggagawang Pilipino Overseas (AMMPO) and Persatuan Pekerja Rumah Tangga Indonesian Migran (PERTIMIG) organized domestic workers to champion this proposal.

In Taiwan, the Domestic Caretakers Union (DCU) successfully advocated for government documents for migrant workers—such as work permits, employment transfers, and termination paperwork—to be provided in the migrants’ languages. This is an important victory, since migrants may otherwise be exploited, misled, or cheated out of wages and labor protections if they cannot understand the documents.

In the Dominican Republic, domestic workers’ advocacy led to the creation of an inter-institutional roundtable on minimum wage and social security. In coordination with the Intersectoral Gender Roundtable, the unions presented a proposal for a special law to regulate domestic work in the country.

This proposal incorporates:

1) working hours, no more than eight hours a day and 44 hours a week;
2) a minimum wage, which must be established by the National Wage Committee;
3) inclusion in social security;
4) as well as the recognition of vacations, maternity leave and other rights acquired and recognized to people who are engaged in other types of work. IDWF affiliates Asociación de Trabajadoras Domésticas (ASTRADOMES), Asociación de Trabajadoras del Hogar (ATH), and Unión Nacional Fenamutra de Trabajadoras del Hogar (UNFETRAH) led these efforts.
IDWF continues to play a crucial role in bringing the voices of domestic workers to discussions about legal reform. On 20 March 2021, Qatar’s new non-discriminatory minimum wage law took effect. Employers also have to provide allowances for food and housing if they do not provide them directly. The legislation also established a Minimum Wage Commission that will review the impact and application of the minimum wage, and propose adjustments, in consultation with different government bodies, experts, workers, and employers (ILO). With several new policy changes and reporting mechanisms, it has been important for Qatari domestic workers to continue providing feedback and suggesting modifications during the implementation phase.

In Jamaica, the Sexual Harassment Act was passed in the Upper House of Parliament on Friday, October 1, 2021. This landmark victory means that domestic workers will have the same protections against sexual harassment in the workplace as all other workers.

In Europe, four countries ratified C189 and C190. Malta and Norway ratified C189 and Italy and Greece ratified C190.

- Sindicato Nacional de Trabajadores y Trabajadoras del Hogar (SINACTRAHO) has developed work agreements with three government institutions in Mexico (the Ministry of Labour, Education Ministry, and Women’s Ministry) to provide services and support for domestic workers in five Mexican states.

CHALLENGES

Our work presents many challenges—both external and internal:

- Isolated and invisible nature of work in private homes
- Dependence on employers for housing, food, and immigration status
- Fear of assault and harassment
- Domestic work is often excluded from labour laws
- Long work hours, no rest or free time or holidays
- Hostility from authorities
- Deterioration of working conditions due to COVID-19 pandemic
